Yesterday

When boys meant “yuck” and friends were new,
Dreams were unshattered and worries few.

When recess was too short and life too long,
Decisions came easy without the need to belong.

When storks delivered babies,
and passions were few and weak.
Friendships unbroken. Right was right and wrong was wrong.

When bad things didn’t happen.
When only skinned knees brought tears, and the night light in its socket quieted our fears.

When a farewell meant just for summer,
and real friends didn’t part.
The fun went on forever and never left a broken heart.

Class of 2000

Dear Class of 1999,

Last January I sat at a meeting where a group of teachers were reviewing the strengths of Abington High School that had surfaced through the accreditation process. The discussion focused upon the special qualities of the students at Abington High School that needed to be understood by visitors. We all agreed that the enthusiasm, involvement and commitment of our students was unique to this school community and was the primary reason for our teaching at Abington High School. Your senior class embodies these characteristics and will leave a proud legacy for underclassmen to follow.

I remember your first day of high school because you were so silent at our first meeting together. Growing up in a small town, you had known each other forever, but you were very quiet that first morning as you waited to meet new teachers and begin your high school adventure. I wondered if you were nervous about the high school or were just the most well behaved freshman class I had ever met.

When I have seen you in the halls or on the playing fields or on stage this senior year, I smile at my memory of your silence that first day because your personalities have filled our school these past four years. I have learned that your class is not shy at all but instead has a depth and substance that sets you apart. I appreciate how everyone in your class can be together, not because you are all friends, but you seem to understand the common and important things you share with each other. I have watched you congratulate each other for a good game and sympathize about a tough loss. I have been impressed with your generosity when someone has been in need. You have come to each other's defense around important issues and have not been afraid to speak up about behavior that was unkind. I hope you will remember these things about yourselves and will bring these qualities to the next part of your journey. It has been a pleasure to come to know you and a privilege to have worked with such a strong class.

Best Wishes,

Kathleen K. Dowling
Kathleen K. Dowling

Dear Class of 1999,

I would like to congratulate the members of the Class of 1999 on their graduation from Abington High School.

Before you graduate take some time to reflect on those individuals who have helped you reach this milestone in your life. Then take the time to say "thank you" to these individuals for their help and support. Trust me, it will make their day!

Each one of you has great promise to be successful in whatever field of endeavor you choose to enter after graduating from Abington High School. I wish each one of you only the best as you strive to achieve your goals in life.

Take care,

Linda McCann
